Students from two geography classes at the high school helped out over two days, planting trees at Sam Slick Park. /Photos submitted by Kathryn Darling

Students pitch in to restore shoreline

JENN WATT
County Life Editor

Students from two Grade 9 geography classes rolled up their sleeves and went to work at Sam Slick Park on May 29 and 30, planting more than 250 trees with the guidance of Jim McHardy, Paul Heaven and Peter McElwain.

The trees and plants will reinforce the shoreline buffer at the park, which for the past few years has been cultivated as a demonstration and teaching site for students and shoreline property owners in Haliburton County.

Haliburton Highlands Secondary School teacher Kathryn Darling said the project provided a hands-on educational opportunity for students to learn about vegetation and soil stability.

Olivia Johnson and Crystal Petry give the experience two thumbs up.

"Students learned how to prevent soil erosion and learned that vegetation along the shoreline helps act as a natural filter for fertilizers that may be present in runoff water. Students were able to identify that the shoreline buffer can help prevent algae blooms in our lakes and students identified the negative impacts algae blooms could have on human activities in our community," she said in an email to County Life.

"Students learned many other positive benefits a healthy shoreline buffer provides: it creates a habitat for birds and small animals, the buffer acts as a safe travel zone for smaller animals so they aren't as exposed to predators and helps deter geese from accessing our grassy areas. Students also removed any garbage they discovered along the shoreline."

Jim McHardy of the Coalition of Haliburton Property Owners' Associations (CHA), the group that spearheaded the demonstration site at Sam Slick Park, thanked the students, Darling, the Municipality of Dysart et al, Heaven and McElwain for their work.

"It was a real pleasure to be a part of it and the CHA looks forward to more opportunities to utilize the site in the future," he said.

On June 1, J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School performed the musical "Honk Jr.," an ugly ducking tale about overcoming adversity and learning how to embrace each others' differences at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion at HHSS.

According to JDH Elementary School principal Andrea Borysiuk, this marks the first musical in over five years with new directing teachers. The musical featured the children playing a variety of different animals such as frogs, ducklings, geese, and swans.

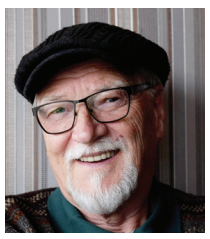
Trash and Treasures 2019

FOR THOSE not familiar with Trash and Treasures it's a vibrant community marketplace organized by the Rails End Gallery and Arts Centre, in Haliburton. It's a fundraiser for the gallery and it's their season opening event every year. The one-day happening has been in existence for more than 20 years, and according to Rails End curator Laurie Jones "it's one of the most anticipated events of summer."

What you'll see are up to 50 vendors, ranging from professional antique dealers to family yard sale types. There will be items ranging from tea spoons, and arts and crafts, to vintage glass, and incredibly, a motorcycle.



GEORGE FARRELL
On Arts/Culture

As well as the public vendors, the Haliburton County Public Library, SIRCH, the Arts Council, the Haliburton County Youth Hub, and the Rails End Gallery, will also have spaces. There will be some pre-loved art available, "some of it really nice," according to Jones, and craft supplies, artist supplies, and costume jewelry. "We also have an entire handmade kitchen dining suite, made from pine," Jones said.

The Trash and Treasures theme as usual is: "Reuse, Reinvent, Repurpose, Resell, Recycle and Reduce."

"It's the ultimate recycling venue; an affordable community marketplace," said Jones.

This year Trash and Treasures will be focusing on being a plastic-free event. Jones is urging everyone to bring their own refillable water containers, which can be filled on site. "And we'll be selling bottomless mugs of coffee, with the mugs included," said Jones. People will have the option of taking their mugs home or returning them.

"We now have over 100 mugs" she said, "and we just want to get rid of the Styrofoam."

As well as all the bargains to be had at the event there will also be some culinary delectables. In the morning there will be bagels and cream cheese available, and all day long, in the Rails End tent, you'll be able to purchase delicious tacos and fruit waters, courtesy of Los Abuelos.

"We'd really like to see more entries in the butter tart contest," Jones said. "So this year's tart entries will be served on an original Rails End 1960s tea tray." The winner of the butter tart contest will be awarded a "golden" crown.

Trash and Treasures is an admission-free event and it takes place on Saturday, June 15, from 8a.m. to 2 p.m. There is no rain date. The event takes place in Head Lake Park adjacent to the Rails End Gallery. The gallery is located at 23 York St in Haliburton. Additional information on the gallery and Trash and Treasures can be found at railsendgallery.com or by calling 705-457-2330.

Vendors and the general public are being requested to take their garbage away with them as there are no garbage facilities or pick up. I'll have a couple of tables at this year's Trash and Treasures, so drop on by and say hello.

A framed picture of silver screen 1930s star Shirley Temple at the Trash and Treasures sale at Head Lake Park in Haliburton. The annual community yard sale offers a variety of items including home goods, tools, toys, clothing and collectibles. It's a draw for bargain hunters and collectors./DARREN LUM Staff

Top 10 reasons to harness the power of mosquitoes

MOST PEOPLE look upon mosquitoes as one of the great plagues of humanity. Those people are what I like to refer to as pessimists. I happen to be an optimist. That means between scratching itchy bites, swatting wildly and running from countless hungry mosquitoes, I dream of the possibilities. I mean, what if I could harness the power of mosquitoes by controlling their minds? What would it mean? Here are the top 10 things I believe this power would bring me.

STEVE GALEA
Humour Columnist

1. A seat at the UN.
2. A ready food source to give to the dragonfly alliance I'd cultivate next.
3. A novel way to collect for Blood Services.
4. Major income from my mosquito-free beach.
5. One billion little body guards.
6. Me creating a buzz.
7. Bribe money from companies that make mosquito repellents.
8. Lifelong friendships with barn swallows and fly catchers.
9. No more scratching awkwardly in front of others – unless I want to.
10. Malaria would just be a strange name used by eastern European women.

Consider sponsoring Dorset activities

DORSET NEWS
Lee Ross
burgesslt@me.com

The 2019 Dorset Fireworks are happening on Saturday, June 29 (rain date Sunday, June 30) at dusk on Trading Bay. The display is being put on by the Dorset Firefighters Association, with thanks to Robinson's General Store for promotional support. If you would like to donate to the show you can do so by visiting gofundme.com/dorsetfireworks2018 (that is not a spelling mistake).

DorsetCanada.com is run by volunteers and in order to maintain the website, we rely on sponsorships. Sponsorship is always open and anyone can become a sponsor. If you're interested, visit dorsetcanada.com and click on Businesses – Sponsorships, or email dorsetontario@gmail.com with questions and to be sent a form. There are different sponsorship levels and all are explained on the form.

The annual multi-family yard sale is happening on Saturday, July 13 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the corner of Harvey Avenue and Highway 35. There will be something for everyone, including books, toys, movies, collectibles, sports equipment, fishing gear, art and so much more. Once again the group will be accepting donated items to the Hub table that are in good condition – no furniture or clothes or large items they can't handle, and 100 per cent of the proceeds will go to the Dorset Community Health Hub. Call Barb at 705-766-2108 to make arrangements re: donated items.

Happy birthday to Lorraine Weatherell, Emily Dukoff-Traves, Courtney Morris, Stan Tyrrell, Lainey Crewson, Eric Eichler, Janet Rogers, Steve Cyopick and Matthew MacKay. For birthdays and submissions please send them to burgesslt@me.com.

She has a nightly window
That flickers constant 'news'
It tries to tweak perspective
And manage all her views
On how to feel successful
And how to look quite good
And how to present perfectly
In a perfect neighbourhood

She has a different sound though
To voices on TV
Her clothes are nice but practical
Her face is makeup-free
She likes the documentaries
Which study fuller world
With wider ways of seeing things
And other truths unfurled

She scrutinizes channels
Believes her window less
And chooses shows that give her light
To balance her distress
She challenges validity
But knows some facts are true
Like talking heads make noise instead
Of thinking most things through

The passing clouds, they're nebulous
And move what's true to false
What's real is in our future
What's right is stuck in vaults
What's wise is what is good still
Where deep perception wakes
Our windows could be shut down firm
Or switched up or mistakes

Or opened wide for purer air
Or watched through cleaner glass
Looked through or at or better still
Replaced with boarding pass
To fly perspective further
With human eye for scope
Brave viewing is the tallest place
From where to forecast hope

Food and Beverage Showcase returns for sixth year

DARREN LUM
County Life Staff

Booths with food, information and items for sale lined the pond at Wintergreen for the Food and Beverage Showcase last June. This year there will be even more to check out on Saturday, June 15. /JENN WATT Staff

For the sixth year, the Highlands Food and Beverage Showcase will be bringing savoury flavours and beautiful aromas to Wintergreen Pancake Barn in Gelert.

The event not only promotes culinary tourism in the Highlands, but also raises money for charity; this year's recipients are Help A Village Effort and Plaid for Dad (a prostate cancer campaign).

Event founders Diane and Tom Dawson are hosting the event at Wintergreen Pancake Barn, located at 3325 Gelert Road in Minden Hills from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, June 15.

After five years, Diane said the event has raised some $30,000 for charities, averaging close to $5,000 for the five hour event. The money comes from admission, donations and the silent auction.

The organizers are most proud to see the people who come to the event each year.

"The people who keep coming back year after year," Diane said. "Amazing loyalty and wanting to see this thing through."

Diane has been involved with HAVE, a locally based charity that funds water projects in India, in the past and the showcase has raised funds for it since the beginning. This year she also wanted to raise money and bring attention to Plaid for Dad. The timing of the event, the day before Father's Day was ideal, she said. Past local recipients have included food banks, children's programs, mothers' programs, and Fuel for Warmth Haliburton County.

Event goers will get to indulge in craft beer, ice cream, pastries and hot food, as well as a silent auction and live music.

This year's event will have more vendors and more variety than ever.

Two dozen vendors have confirmed attendance so far. Among them are new caterers, a new brewery based in Irondale and the new cafe, Eat! in Minden. Minden-based business, Raisin the Root, will offer vegan and gluten free options.

Keeping the showcase going hasn't been easy, but it's been satisfying for the Dawsons, who consider it a part of promoting the Highlands culinary scene.

"It's a tourism pillar of this community. It's really important. A lot of people make their livelihoods [from it]. There are a lot of young people getting into farming," Diane said. "People have to find out about them."

The cost is $20 per person (16 years plus) and is $50 per family. Admission includes food from all vendors as well as live music. Diane said a family "is whatever you think you can afford. If you want to spend $50 for your family. If you think maybe you should spend a bit more ... We don't want to exclude anybody. We want families here. It's Father's Day weekend."

Organizers suggest bringing your own cutlery, plate, lawn chair and bug spray. This year there is an emphasis on discouraging disposable single-use water bottles and a hope that event goers can bring re-usable water bottles.

The Dawsons were happy town crier John Webster would be coming for a third time.

"He is the guy for town crying in North America," Diane said.

Webster is a winner of the International Town Crier Competition and is an official town crier for the City of Markham, the town of Aurora, East Gwillimbury and Cary, North Carolina.

The live music begins at 11 a.m. with Custom Blend, followed by Nick Russell (who follows speeches) at 12:15, Minden Times/Haliburton Echo reporter Chad Ingram at 1 p.m., bagpipers and Scottish dancers at 1:45 p.m., Marie Watson at 2:30 p.m. and ends with Shout Sisters at 3:30 p.m.

Diane said this event has always been about showcasing all the culinary options in the Highlands in one location.

"People want to eat well and we should be eating well. There's no reason why we can't eat well up here," she said.

Reserve your tickets ahead of time by contacting Diane Dawson at 705-286-3202 or at dawson.wintergreen@sympatico.ca.

Time to net your Lobsterfest tickets

It's a sure sign that summer is here when the Rotary Club of Haliburton hosts its annual Lobsterfest fund-raising dinner Saturday, June 22.

Dine on fresh East Coast lobster and a full dinner catered by McKecks, bid on live and silent auction items, and enjoy an evening out with your friends and neighbours.

The Rotary Club is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year and money raised goes to projects in the Haliburton Highlands.

Tickets are $75 and can be purchased at V&S Haliburton (705-457-2715) or from any Rotarian. (Anyone who wants to donate a live or silent auction item can contact David Zilstra at 705-457-1037 ext. 37.)

Lobsterfest is Saturday, June 22 from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Haliburton Legion.

Campbell launches Boundless

Kate Campbell performs alongside Nick Russell, left, and Robert Lee, right. Out of frame was Nick Mancini, who wowed the crowd with his vibraphone skills. Campbell's concert on June 3 was a fundraiser for her short film, Boundless, which she has written and is directing. Boundless is about women pilots during the Second World War. No cuts made in school board's balanced budget

MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

The board of education should able to balance its budget for 2201/2002 without having to reduce services.

It's even able to pull off this financial feat despite declining enrollment – and corresponding funding –, increased fuel costs and the enhancement of certain programs.

Last Tuesday night in Minden, trustees with the Trillium Lakelands District School Board were presented with a $145-million draft budget.

Although there are funding shortfalls in such areas as special education and transportation, there is enough funding through the province's new "flexibility" grant to make the budget balance.

Provincial funding is based on a per pupil model. Because there are 1.4% fewer students next year, the board will lose almost $2-million in student funding. (There will be a projected 112 fewer elementary students and 212 high school students. The latter is partly being attributed to a new Catholic high school under construction in Lindsay.)

However, the board gained about $3.5-million in other types of provincial funding. For instance, the province increased per student funding by $100 as part of the additional $360-million for education in the recent budget. That amounts to approximately $2-million more for Trillium Lakeland's 20,000 students.

As well, there's a new fund

Minister of Tourism arrives bearing cheques

MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

While local businesses which rely on tourism were happy to know the provincial Minister of Tourism was discovering the beauty of the Highlands on Friday, other community groups also welcomed his arrival – especially since Tim Hudak came bearing cheques totalling $49,500.

As the minister responsible for the $100-million Trillium Foundation, Hudak doled out three Trillium cheques during his visit to the Highlands.

In Minden, he gave $10,000 to the Minden Lawn Bowling Club to help with operational costs and membership drives.

In Haliburton, Hudak presented the Haliburton Curling Club with $22,000 to improve facilities. The Haliburton County Development Corporation's visual arts committee received $17,500 for its new Glebe Park sculpture trail that will showcase the work of many artists and artisans in a natural and serene setting.

The Trillium Foundation gets its money from the province's gaming initiatives. There is a provincial board and also several regional boards which

Lutterworth and Snowdon ratepayers benefit from Minden Hills' budget

ERIK MARTENSSON
Staff Reporter

Minden Hills' new budget means some of the municipality's ratepayers are receiving a welcome surprise – a decrease in their property tax rate.

A comparison of 2001's rates with 2000's rates shows that while the residential ratepayers in Anson, Hindon and Minden will pay 0.5 percent more than they did last year, ratepayers in Lutterworth will pay 3.35 per cent less while those in Snowdon will see a 1.76 per cent drop.

With the new tax rate, a residential property in Minden Hills assessed at $100,000 will pay $951.95 this year.

Last year, the taxes for a $100,000 property were as follows: $984.96 in Lutterworth, $969.03 in Snowdon and $947.21 in Anson, Hindon and Minden The tax rate includes general municipal, county and education taxes - residents of the town of Minden Hills will pay additional taxes for their municipal water system.

Commercial tax rates are up 1.36 per cent in Anson, Hindon
